Report of rape in Rochester Hills turns out to be false

A false rape was reported by a teenager after she and a friend were dropped off at a Panera Bread in Rochester Hills, the Oakland County Sheriff's Office reported.

It was about 6:38 a.m. Sunday when deputies reported being dispatched to the Panera Bread at 2921 S. Rochester Road because an 18-year-old woman from Clinton Township dialed 911 to report she and a friend had just been thrown out of a red van.

The woman also reported her friend may have been raped.

The friend, a 17-year-old from Clinton Township, was gone when deputies arrived at the scene, according to reports.

A police dog was used in an attempt to track her, but she couldn’t be located, deputies said.

The teens had been at a party in Shelby Township when the friend had gotten into a fight with a girl at the party, deputies said.

The two were driven to the Panera Bread and left.

The friend was found about two hours later, sleeping at a friend's house located in the 1000 block of Parke Street in Rochester Hills, deputies said.

The Rochester Hills Fire Department took her to an area hospital.

She was extremely drunk, fought with firefighters, and had taken some prescription pills, deputies reported.

Her mother was contacted and it was determined she hadn't been sexually assaulted.

The Shelby Township Police Department was also notified of the incident.
