Armed robbery
An armed robbery of the popular Seven Days Coffee Shop on Beachmont Square has police scrutinizing videotape and looking for a suspect.
Last Thursday around 8:25 p.m., a man in a blue hoodie and an orange T-shirt walked into the Seven Days Coffee Shop on Beachmont Avenue and pointed a gun at the registers and took money.
When the robber asked the clerk if she was alone, she asked the clerk in a soft tone for two dollars to fill it with cash.
Around 3:40 p.m. last Friday, police responded to the building at 388 Ocean Ave. for a break.
The frightened clerk filled the register with cash.
Police immediately discovered fingerprints into her stock and informed the robber to buy a small item. After she left, the robber continued.
The frightened clerk filled the envelope with money.
Then, the man said the store with the gun, money and a bag full of ice cream, cake and cigarettes.
Detectives were able to secure a videoclip of the robbery and actually have a copy of the suspect.
He is described as being very large in stature, around 6 feet 4 inches tall, weighing 300 pounds. He fled down Beachmont Avenue.
