Submitted by Rose Egge on Friday, December 11th, 12:33pm

Seattle Police are warning local residents that the man who sexually assaulted a woman on Broadway this morning is still at large.

According to police, at approximately 5:55 a.m., East Precinct officers responded to a call of a sexual assault in a parking garage located in the 600 Block of Broadway Avenue. A woman there said she had been attacked by an unknown man less than a half hour before.

She described her attacker as a dark skinned black male, 6? tall, with a muscular build. He was wearing a grey sweatshirt with the hood up, a dark ski mask and black, lace up boots. The victim says the man implied that he had a gun, and ran away after the attack.

The victim was transported to the hospital where she is receiving medical treatment. Detectives from the Sexual Assault Unit and the CSI Unit responded to the scene to investigate and search for evidence.

This is an active and on-going investigation. While police say there is nothing that the victim could have done to prevent this crime, residents are cautioned to be aware of their surroundings at all times and report all suspicious activity to 911.
